1841.

Native tribes have always lived here

Native people created paths across land, lakes, rivers and bays all throughout central Puget Sound. Swift canoes traveled from camp to camp. Hunters took forest trails to bluffs overlooking the bay.

Every rock and hill, every creek and inlet has a Native name that tells a story about that place and these pathways.

The center of this map shows place-names in Lushootseed, the deep, powerful language of the Duwamish people.

thereof, may be observed and fulfilled with good faith by the United States and the citizens thereof.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the [illegible] to be affixed.

Done at the city of [illegible]ton, this fifth day of August, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and forty-six, and of the Independence of the United States the seventy-first.
